PREFACE

This is not to boast of the importance of the Christians. The writer of this book believes in communal harmony. This is also not to make any demands for greater representation in the name of religion. It is meant to give a wider view of the Christians representing less than 3% of the population of India. This is only a Who Is Who. The Indian Christian Directory will be published as a companion volume for this Who Is who, very soon.

In 1970 National Christian Council of India (N.C.C.I.) published Christian Handbook which was much smaller in coverage than the previous 1958 The Christian Handbook of India. The 1970 Handbook, although small in scope, included the addresses of all non-Roman Catholic bishops in India.

When N.C.C.I. published the 1970 Handbook which was the 26th issue of the Christian Handbook the secretaries wrote in the Publisher's Preface: "The last one which was rather exhaustive in its coverage, came out about ten years ago and since then three attempts have been made to bring out a similar Handbook, but with no success. This was primarily because the information sought from the constituent bodies was not forthcoming in time. Also to bring out an exhaustive handbook is a laborious and expensive process."

The writer realises that it is an ambitious and herculean task for a single man to venture.

Ever since the present writer was elected one of the two Vice Presidents of the Church History Association of India in 1973 and President in 1976, he had closer contacts with Professors of Church History in various theological institutions in India. This offered him an opportunity to carry on research of his own to compile a Directory and Who Is Who.

During the past ten years in addition to the meetings of the Church History Association of India he had occasions to travel from Kerala to Kashmir and Maharashtra to Mizoram in connection with various Christian conferences and evangelistic meetings. This brought him into direct contact with Church leaders and ordinary believers. This was an advantage indeed. When the author visited Mizoram in November 1978 he was surprised to see such a strong Christian community in that disturbed border state of India sandwiched between Bangla Desh and Burma. The percentage of Christians in that state is 94 compared to the 21.05% of Kerala where Christianity was founded more than 18 centuries prior to the introduction of Christianity to the Mizo mountains. Cut off culturally and geographically from the rest of India, the author felt the urgent need to have a book where one can read about Christians in various parts of India.

Any Directory or Who Is Who has its disadvantage. It is difficult to make it upto date. By the time the data of other parts are available, the data collected earlier becomes outdated. Some will die, others will retire. In the Church of South India (C.S.I.) and the Church of North India (C.N.I.) the bishops retire at the age of 65 while the Catholic bishops retire at 75. In the Orthodox, Mar Thoma and other Eastern Churches only death can remove the bishops as retirement is not required by law. In some Churches such as most of the Lutheran groups the appointment to the office of the President is by election for different times. The Moderator of C.S.I. and C.N.I. are also elected from among the bishops for a term of two years and 3 years respectively. They are sometimes re-elected for a second or third term. Since the elections of the office bearers take place at different times, it is very difficult to keep track. The data in this Who is Who, however, is almost upto date to May, 1983.

Not only the denominational barriers but geographical destinations also have kept the Christians pathetically separate. Christians are very parochial in their attitude. The Christians in South India know very little about their fellow believers in the North.

The book is not the finished product of any exhaustive research. It is meant to present the readers with some relevant information, about Christians in India.

During recent years some Churches have united. Others have separated into groups and divisions. More and more Church leadership has been occupied by Indians. A large number of missionaries have left India. The Church in India is more Indian today.

Not only the Christians but also the Hindus (82.72%), Muslims (11.21%), Sikhs (1.89%), Buddhists (0.70%) and Jains (0.47%) in India will find, the author hopes, this book interesting. Christians have the third place among the religions in India after the Hindus and Muslims. The author will be satisfied if this book can project the correct image of the twenty million Indian Christians.

Catholic Bishops in India

State wise distribution of Dioceses

The State-wise distribution of ecclesiastical units in India is as follows: Total 109

|                    |    |                    |    |
|--------------------|----|--------------------|----|
| Andhra Pradesh     | 10 | Assam              | 3  |
| Bihar              | 6  | Delhi              | 1  |
| Goa                | 1  | Gujarat            | 3  |
| Haryana & Himachal | 1  | Jammu-Kashmir      | 1  |

| Rajasthan          | 1  | Tamilnadu          | 14 |
| Uttar Pradesh      | 7  | West Bengal        | 6  |

Place of origin of Bishops

Going by the place of birth, the Bishops of India are distributed all over India, though the concentration is in the South. Kerala the cradle of Christianity has mothered 44 Bishops and about 70% of the priests and religious. Next in rank is Tamil Nadu with 19 bishops. Bangladesh and Pakistan, have given 2 Bishops each, who were born when the area formed part of India. Similarly Burma has given one Bishop. Out of 5 diocesan heads of foreign origin 2 are born in Italy, two in U.S.A. and one in Germany. All except one out of 114 are Indian citizens.

The state wise distribution is as follows:

|             |    |                |   |
|-------------|----|----------------|---|
| Kerala      | 44 | Bihar          | 4 |
| Tamil Nadu  | 19 | Goa            | 2 |
| Maharashtra | 13 | Madhya Pradesh | 2 |
| Karnataka   | 8  | Uttar Pradesh  | 2 |
| Andhra      | 4  | Assam          | 1 |
| West Bengal | 4  | Orissa         | 1 |

Other countries 10

Linguistic Distribution

The linguistic distribution of bishops is also significant for its variety.

|           |    |         |    |
|-----------|----|---------|----|
| Malayalam | 45 | English | 15 |
| Tamil     | 14 | Konkani | 13 |
| Telugu    | 9  | Oraon   | 5  |
| Marathi   | 3  | Bengali | 2  |
| Kharia    | 2  | Kannada | 1  |
| Munda     | 1  | Neepali | 1  |
| Italian   | 1  | German  | 1  |

Diocesan/Religious Clergy

Though large majority of bishops come from the diocesan priests, many religious congregations have members in the episcopacy. Jesuits top the list with 10.

|                  |    |                  |    |
|------------------|----|------------------|----|
| Diocesan priests | 75 | Jesuits SJ       | 10 |
| Carmelites CMI   | 5  | Fransalians MSFS | 4  |

| " VC              | 1 | Third Order Regular TOR | 1   |
| PIME Mission      | 1 | TOTAL :                 | 114 |

Age and Experience

Most of the bishops of India are young not only in spirit, but also in age. Some 30% are below 50 years of age. The oldest bishop, Augustine Wildermuth of Patna is 75 (born on 20/2/1904, he has retired in January). The youngest is bishop Abraham Viruthikulangara of Khandwa, born on 5/6/1943. Seventy five is considered retiring age and thirty five as a minimum age for Bishops. Two exceptions in India have been Archbishop Eugene D'Souza and Bishop Abraham Viruthikulangara, consecrated at the age of 33 and 34 respectively.

|                               |    |

A few years of experience in priestly ministry is another necessary qualification for Bishops. The period of such experience in case of India ranges from 7 years to 38 years. The shortest was in the case of Archbishop Eugene D'Souza (7 years) and the longest in the case of Bishop Clemens Thottungal (38 years). All Bishops became priests between 1930 and 1970.

Educational Qualifications

Besides long priestly formation and varied experience, most Bishops have high qualifications as research or other degrees in ecclesiastical as well as secular subjects. The following are the details of such qualifications.

|  |    |
|--|----|
| Doctorate in ecclesiastical subjects                               | 33 |
| Master                   ”                   ”                   ” | 24 |
| Bachelor               ”               ”               ”           | 2  |
| Doctorate in Secular Subjects                                      | 2  |
| Master in secular subjects   | 22 |
| Bachelor in secular subjects                                       | 19 |

The structures of the Church took new forms as Portuguese rule and Roman discipline were enforced in the 18th century. With this started a new phase in the history of the Church. The growth of the Church since then can be visualised in the creation of new ecclesiastical units (Vicariates, Dioceses etc). The assigning of the separate regions to the numerous missionary congregations of Europe and America gave great boost to Church-expansion in the 18th and 19th centuries. The establishment of the Indian Hierarchy in 1886 was a great event and a stepping stone. Since then the number of ecclesiastical units in India has risen from 17 to 109. More and more people joined the Church, bringing the catholic population to 10528912. Many young men and women answered the divine call for dedicated life as priests and religious. Thus today India has 11055 priests and 45181 nuns of Indian origin as against 836 priests and 1195 nuns of foreign origin. When Hierarchy was established in 1886 all heads of dioceses were of foreign origin. Today 106 out of the 109 are of Indian origin. Over a thousand priests and nuns from India serve in other countries.

The details noted below may give a graphic picture of the situation.

The oldest diocesan units formally establised by Rome are

Non-Catholic Bishops

In Catholic, bishops retire at the age of 75. The Cardinals are, however, allowed to vote in the election of the Pope upto the age of 80.

In the non-Catholic Churches the retirement age is 65 in CSI, CNI Methodist and Lutheran Churches. In the Salvation army the retirement age for Colonels is 65. But if he is promoted as a Commissioner, he can work upto the age of 67.

In the Orthodox, Jacobite, MarThoma, Chaldean, and the Independent Church of Thozhiyur there is no retirement age for bishops.

Between 75 and 80 (as on April 1983)

1. Most Rev. Thomas Mar Osthathios (Jacobite Church)
2. His Holiness Mar Thoma Mathews (Catholicos) Orthodox Church

Who Was Who

Given below are the names of 250 prominent persons from the past. The first 50 are foreigners from Turkey, Syria, Germany, Hungary, Italy, England, America etc. The remaining 200 are Indians. The selection is a limited one. At least 1000 persons should be selected from the Past in order to give a brief mention of all geographical and denominational divisions in India. In the present list wider representation is given to various linguistic areas and denominations. Not only bishops but also lay men and lay women were given prominence.

Neither alphabetical nor denominational order was followed. Geographical order was also not followed. Each has its merits and demerits. Hence all is listed without these classifications. The foreigners were listed as the first fifty. Ofcourse in the early stages they were the founders in almost all the denominations. Now almost all the leaders are Indians.
